Dear Friends:

I am pleased to send my very best wishes to all those gathered today speaking out against terrorism. I especially would like to congratulate the Pakistani American Association of Connecticut, the Pakistani American Public Affairs Committee and the association of Pakistani Physicians of North America Connecticut Chapter for having the courage to stand together as Americans to defend liberty and freedom.

The recent cowardly terrorist attacks in London reminds us all too well that terrorism remains a threat to us in America and our friends around the world. The terrorists have but one goal that is to shake our resolve and divide us against one another.

Today's event sends a clear message to the world community that we will work together to defeat terrorism and to bring to justice all those masterminding death and destruction. Today, we stand as one stating clearly that terrorism will never be tolerated. Again, thank you for inviting me and for your commitment to the fight against terrorism.

Sincerely,

Joseph I. Lieberman
United States Senator
